OUR COMPLAINT BOOK.

To the Editor of the Herald:—
I would like to prevent an evil which is set forth in the advertised programme of the spring games and conditions of the New York Athletics, May 30, 1877. In that programme appears this clause:—"An entrance fee, not returnable, of $1 for each and every game, must accompany all entries." Now, to my personal knowledge there are a number of amateurs who think that when competing for honor no entrance fee (not returnable) should be charged, and it is but just, as in ngiand, where athletics are more in vogue, entrance fees to amateurs are seldom or never charged-only to professionals for money prizes. Every one interested in athletic sports in this vicinity is well aware that the New York Athletic Club consider themselves an authority on athletics; nay more, they assert that they are the originators of athletics in this country; but it in very evident that if such underhand work as that of the list two years continues their tolduence will soon be a thing of the past. On a supposition that there will be present (weather being line) 3,000 speciators—as was the case last year—and a like sum of about $1,700 realized, surely this would be fully enough to pay all expenses, medals included, particularly if they intend giving such medals as they gave to Charles Connor, of the Y. M. C. A., in the championship fail games of 1876, for the best seven miles record in this country—a paltry silver one. For what purpose, then, if any, is the money which will be realized from the entrance fees? It is a great pity that they, having the advantages of money and beautiful grounds, should not act more straightforwardly, as was the custom several years ago. Then the medals were made and placed on exhibition at a prominent igweller's, so that an amateur could see what he was to compete for. An amateur does not wish to (and I know several good ones that won't) buy a chance for a prize, as in a lottery.

In your editorial article headed "The Fire Fiend" you state that "the service of the Southern Hotel was partly Irisb, partly African. System, order and carefulness are not conspicuous in the character of these races." I take that as an insuit on the Irish race. Some of our most systematic business men are Irishmen. Of course there are exceptions in all nations, yet you make no exceptions, but brand the race.

CIVIL SERVICE IN NEBRASKA.

FREMONT, Neb., April 9, 1877.
To the Editor of the Herald:—
I would like to call the attention of the Herald

readers to a civil service instance in this part of the West. Hardly had the new Senator from this State arrived in Washington when he commenced a fight for places for his friends. He managed to displace the ost acceptable postmaster Omaha has ever had; this, too, in the face of a protest in the shape of a petition, stened by over four hundred prominent citizens, irrespective of party. Said petition contained the names spective of party. Said petition contained the sames of three-lourths of the leading firms of the city. Immediately following this an order is issued decapitating Captain Samuel Beatty, head clerk in the postal service from Omaha to Ogden. Captain Beatty has blen in the postal service from Omaha to Ogden. Captain Beatty has blen in the postal service from Omaha to Ogden. Captain Beatty has blen in the postal service from Omaha to Ogden. Captain Beatty has blen in the postal service from Omaha to Ogden. Captain Beatty has blen in the Dest record of any clerk on this from also has a record equal if not superior to any clerk in the United States. He was objectionable to Saunders and his friends because he did not use his inducate for them in last fail's election, but chose rather to support Senator litten-cock. Finding their real and only excuse was not sufficient to remove a man who served the public well fleey find it necessary to prefer some charges. Finding that Captain Beatty would occasionally take a so-rotal glass with his friends the charge of drinking was preferred. Now I dely any one to cite an instance where Captain Beatty ever induged in stimulants of any description while on duty. His car was slways under the strictest discipline, and if taking a glass occasionally gave him such a superior record I would suggest that Postmaster General Key find out what kind of liquor Captain Beatty used, toat he may lay in a supply to be issued to those subordinates whose records are not up to the standard. If the Post Office Department had more such clerks as Captain Beatty the fikrath and other leading papers would have less cause for complaint on lost and miss-sent packages. I have known Captain Beatty, when fielding a paper without the wrapper containing the address, to search through a tabletul of papers, probably several thousand, dutil the wrapper was found and they have legal to make room for an inexperienced band in order that the victors can reent their spite and reward a freend who assisted them in a local three-lourths of the leading firms of the city. THE HERALD PRINTS THE NEWS FOR ALL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-It is perhaps hardly fair to expect to turn a man's weapons against himself, but I want to make use of the Herald "Complaint Book" to complain of the HERALD in this respect. It is almost impossible to take up a copy nowadays without reading one or more so-called challenges (7) of "sporting men." more so-called challenges (*) of "sporting men." I can hardly conceive it to be a matter of general interest to the Erralo partons that Billy McGougem thinks he can pound Paisey O'Masnor in accordance with the rules of the prize ring, or that Barney O'Twisser thinks he can out-wrestle Oweu McGreakback in a given time. It seems if these persons had business of this kind to settle they would adopt the course usually taken by ordinary men, and write to the person they want to reach and not set a write to the person they want to reach, and not get a gratuitous edvertisement (for such it is, simply an advertisement) of their bruiality in your columns. If you would apply the same rule to their case that you do to a poor clerk or servant girl advertising for a situation to enable them to make a livelihood—viz, charge them a good round price for each insertion—they would probably desist, and transact that kind of business with the filthy sheets misnamed "sporting newspapers," and which are undoubtedly read by those of the class who can read and who are directly interested.

To the Epiron of the Hebald:—
In the public schools of Newark, N. J., the teachers require the scholars to stand up and report the number of times they have "talked" during the session. And there are scholars who are striving to get a good "average" who will stand up and take their "demerits" repeatedly. All honor to those scholars; but shame on the system of offering premiums on falsehood.

A FATHER,

TO TER EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-

Parden me if I take up some of your valuable space to let the world know some of my troubles, which is the cry that goes forth from the souls of thousands of young men in the same circumstances. I was taken sick last winter and was bad for about six weeks, and as there was a substitute. My salary had been small, and consequently I had a large doctor's bill which I could not pay, and still lowe about $50, but that is the largest bill. I have an excellent character (even though I say so myself). I am now working on commission and with hard work can make about $50 a week, and have to pay all expenses out of that. You know what poor food one must live on to do that. I have a great deal of walking to do, and have an appetite for substantial food, that I am himted. The ciothes that once looked good are getting seedy, and if times don't get good I don't know what I will do. You know, Mr. Editor, that drummers must look respectable. It gives them more confidence and their customers have respect for them.

I would bring all this before the public that those who are well off may thank God for it, and that young men who have good situations may appreciate them and not grumble at their late. If I could keep out of deut I would feel content. Men may preach about drammers carrying flasks of brandy in their pockets, but they ought to remember that drummers don't get the clergymen's saisries.

"Aladdin's Lamp" not occurring to me, I gave him what I had, when he changed them about, asked for older, and, in fact, made a regular Chinese puzzle of it, but I had a distinct impression that he was in my debt to the amount of $2, which sum I politely saked for, when he indignantly denied owing me anything, and having socceeded in completely mistrying me, I thought I might have been mistaken, and allowed him to go, as there were customers waiting for me. When I had seisure I counted up the cash and found missing $2, and putting this and that suspicious action of his together, I concluded that I was A SWINDLED CLERK.

POISONOUS MEAT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-Will you be kind enough to stir up the inspectors of meat markets in New York and Brooklyn to a sense of their duties and let housekeeper- know what kind of nimals those are that have skins on them and that the butchers call veni. If they be calves they are too the butchers call yeal. If they be calves they are too young, as many of them are not over eight days old when they have to suffer for our sine, or appetites, whichever you please to call it. This much I do know, that mysell and family one boy and three girls, suffered all the horrors of Assuc entotes for the last fitteen hours, and our family physician pronounced our case to be very dangerous at one time, and all from the effect of the veal, as we supposed it to be, although we used it very moderately. I believe if the fleah had been that of a Newtoundhand dog, or even the poison-ous Spitz, it could not have been more poisonous. I hope the Health Board and inspectors will pay especial attention to those who have no respect for the invest of our people as long as they profit by fraud.

ECONOMY IN THE WIND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—
Old Boreas has suggested to me to-day a mode by which our citizens can aid in cleaning our fithy city and save all expense and annoyance to those over By a close calculation I have found that 1,301 cart leads of street refuse bave been deposited in the noses, ears, mouths and upon the persons of our citizens, who have thus to-day removed this quantity free of expense to the city ireasury. Now, should the present high winds continue for about a hunared lays, and our citizens assist by exposing themselves as much as possible in the streets, it is behaved that our city would be entirely defined. The dead cats and dogs and the garbage that would be uncarthed by this process would very soon pass away as soon as the warm weather sets in ha a quiet and dorilerors manner; but as some of our sweecest perfumes are made from the vitest smelling gases, we might, by some simple invention, enjoy any delignified our we might fancy. The $2.000 per day saved by the above plan could then be divided among the Commissioners of the Police Department. loads of street refuse bave been deposited in the noses,

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—
I believe it is your desire that the Herald shall be placed on our breaklast tables here in Philadelphia, but such is not the case unless a late breakfast is taken; but that is no fault of yours, for everybody knows that you spare not pains nor expense in order that your million of readers throughout the Republic can have the latest news from all parts of the globe at the carliest possible moment. It is, indeed, something no be appreciated, for a person 100 miles distant from New York to receive the Herallo before breakfast, with its columns loaded down with rich food for the intellectual digestion. It cannot be that there are any of the higher "vertebrates" that Mother Nature did not endow with sufficient intelligence to appreciate it. Now, the Herallo train arrives in this city at six o'clock, and at none of the hotels or news stands can a Herallo be procured before half-past seven, and they are not delivered at private residences in the central part of the city until half-past eight or nine o'clock. Why all this delay? Very respectfully,

THOMAS C. BROPHY.

SELL THE DIRT IN THE STREETS.

To THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—
The privileges of sweeping the streets of Paris are annually rented for quite a large sum to a company, who in turn sell the sweepings to the farmers in the in turn sell the sweepings to the larmers in the vicinity. Why could not this be done in New York? Let the city be divided into districts, each to be sold at auction to the highest bilder. There are hundreds of larmers from New Jersey and Long Island coming daily to New York who would be glad to purchase the sweepings at a fair price. If this were tried we should have for once clean streets.

J. H. G.

STREET ANNOYANCES. L. F. Cahn says that it is now about two weeks since Rivington street, between Cinton and Suffolk, has been swept, the dirt being left to dry by the sun and to be scattered by the wind. The ash carts come at an interval of four or five days. The other day he put out a barrel half full of dirt, and in less than five minutes it was filled by neighbors, with a mountain on top of it. That night at ten o'clock the dirt cart came and wanted the writer to "do something for the country," if he would take the ashes along, claiming it was stuff dug out of a cellar and he had no business to take it. Must even a cartman be bribed to do his duty?

"A Resident" writes that on Sixty-first street, between First and Second avenues, there is a pile of ashes and garbage and the street is in a fifthy condition. When do they intend to clean the street? is a question asked by all passers-by. It is a shame that the taxpayers are obliged to pay for such neglect.

"An old Resident" asks leave to call the attention of Captain Kennedy to a gang of loafers who congregate on the corner of Seventh avenue and Thirteenth street. Young ladies are insulted. The residents will be 'grateful to Captain Kennedy if he will externinate this gang.

"A Sufferer" requests the "Complaint Book" to call the attention of the Nineteenth precinct to a gang of young loafers who misst the Borthwest corner of Fifty-third street. They insult every young lady who passes by.

by.

"S." states that East Twenty-ninth street, between Lexington and Third avenues, was carefully swept at about eight o'clock Tuesday morning. As usual, the mud and dirt were piled up into little hillocks near the curb stones. These piles of mud, dirt and dust have remained where they were stacked—that is to say, so much of them as now appears left, the high wind and the small boys in the neighborhood having produced a "scatteration," and no sign of a dirt cart to remove the nussance.

"scatteration," and no sign of a dirt cart to remove the nuisance.

"A Sufferer" (No. 2) asks for a small space in your valuable "Complaint Book" in regard to the dirt in Sixty-flith street, between First and Second avenues, it is something grand to see. I hope that the Commissioners of Paving will attend to it.

"Check Full Dirt" thinks we are going from bad to worse. The dust has been blowing at a learful rate for several days past, instead of having clean streets. What the houses leave in the streets is dried in the sun and blown into the gutters, and is then cremated, and, in ture, the ashes are blown around again, and, after inhaling the drift stiff all day we go bome and sit up all night to see if we are not going to have a shower of rain to carry off the filts. Can you not get at some one with a sharp stick so as to get clean streets once more?

"J. J. R." inquires if there is no law to prohibit drivers of treeks, &c., from running against one monther and then blocking the streets to settle their of outrageouty vulgar language, thus collecting a crowd of roughs, to the great annoyance of all respectable citizens.

"Sicrekeeper" says that Maiden lane was swept on Monday, the dirt left in heaps, close to the curb stone, and is being ground up and scattered by the trucks and horses as well by the wind, into the stores, all through the lane. The street is full of holes, causing it to be continually blocked by loaded trucks.

The residents of Forty-second street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, beg to have that block swept and cleared up. Not a particle of dirt swept up in six months and two sand heaps by open lots are sufficiently as and we are taxed seven per cont for the purpose of ruining clothes and furniture.

"One Who Likes to Keep Clean:"—I would like to call the attention of the Street Cleaning Department to the dusty condition of Pearl street in the vicinity of Hanover square. One can not venture into the street without noing binded with dust and having his clothing spoiled. It finds its way in the offices on the third floors, covers everything and is intensely disagreeable.

"One who Realizes the Sonse of Smell" suggests that the department will do well by romoving the winter's collection of "canine curiostices" from the neighborhood of Maiden lane and Front street.

"H. T. C." asks, is there no law against a baker keeping all of his eight wagons in front of his store night and day? At sixty-first street and Third avenue is the place where this is done. The wagons are on the stacewalk half the time.

"A Constant Reader" asks who owns the sidewalk in front of the fruit store on Front and Beckman streets. There are about a thousand boxes or oranges and lemons piled there all the time.

"Bricktop" wants to know who has given power to builders to block up the sidewalk and half the street with sand heaps and foundation stones, not to speak of those dug and flags tors up and piled up so as to thoroughly block any passage along that side of the street with sand heaps and foundation stones, not to spe

THE MILITIA DRILLS. HEADQUARTERS TWENTY-SECOND REGISERY, NEW YORK, April 12, 1877. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-

My attention has been called to a communication which recently appeared in your "Complaint Book" column, over the nondescript nom de plume, "Kept Out," in which the writer complains that he was excluded from the armory of this regiment on a recent battalion drill evening. The guard posted at the door on each drill evening has positive official instructions to allow no person to pass in except members of the regiment, or other adult individuals or respectable appearance, and this being so, if the guard on the evening in question did not consider that "Kept Out" was of reputable appearance, they were well justified in excluding him. This distinction is rendered necessary to prevent overcrowding and confusion, as well as to have the audience entirely select, and not from any other reason whatever. Yours truly, column, over the nondescript nom de plume, "Kept

DERELICY POLICE BOARD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-Your editorial in the BERALD of April 10, headed Trouble for the Police Commissioners," is to the point and worthy of all praise. There is no circumstance to paillate the outrageous indifference of the Police Commissioners in their action of cleaning and sprinkling missioners in their action of cleaning and sprinkling the streets. As the Herald very properly says, "The amount appropriated for cleaning the streets might as well be dumped in the East River or wherever clso the city garbage is disposed of." I ask for information whether the Police Commissioners for this criminal neglect of duty are not hable to an indictment for non-appropriation of the moneys received? Your remarks in the same editorial as regards the reprimand business in the case of Roundsman Lester Lewis by "Baldy" Smith are most timely, and, indoubledly, such a Police Commissioner "should not be allowed to remain in office a single day."

THE VELOCIPEDISTS' AMBITION.

NEW YORK, April 8, 1877.

To THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

The sport of velocipede riding has become very popular among the boys of New York, but, as they are prohibited from riding upon the sidewalks, why do not the Park Commissioners set aside one road for this amasement? I do not think they would cause any more harm than the goat carriages, which are allowed to run upon the Mall, even when it is orowided with people. Assuring you that by inserting this in your paper you will be advocating the cause of many of the boys, I remain, yours,

G. W. C. THE SCANLON TRAGEDY.

BESULT OF CORONER WOLTMAN'S INVESTIGA

TION-THE MYSTERY DARKER THAN EVER. The Scanion murder or the mystery of No. 41 Mul-Woltman, notwithstanding the examination of a num-ber of witnesses and the careful survey of the premises by the Ceroner and his jury before the inquest. The vertict was that Ceraelius Scanlon had come to his death through injuries received from some unknown party. And yet Mrs. Scanlen was not released. She had been brought from the Tombs, to which Justice Kilbreth had committed her, to testify as to her knowledge of the circumstances attending her unfor-tuoste husband's death. But she seemed unable to afford any but the most meagre and commonplace in-formation. During the whole investigation, four-fifths of which had to be conducted through the medium of an lialian interpreter, the wretched woman, thinly clad, with pinched features, sat in a corner inside the

The proceedings were begun early, in the manner above indicated, and when the jury with the Coroner returned from the rookery in Mulberry street which has already been described in the HREALD, tes timony was taken. There were very few persons in he room. The first witness examined was Officer Hatton, who found the deceased. He arrested Mrs. Scanion, who was in bed when he rapped, and an Italian called "Mike," whom Mrs. Scanion charged vaguely with having and something to do with the tragedy, if any one in that quarter had. What was more material for the unfortunate woman was Hatton's statement that, in his judgment, she could not pessibly have thrown the man out of the window unless she had had assistance. The next wituess was Alice Ward, who said that on Monday morning she was told by Dominico Veldmani that he had heard Mrs. Fox call out "Mike! Mike! I wi! fix you!" after which there was a heavy fall in the yard. The man Scanion was then found dead in the yard with the clothes line tied about him. Dominico's testimony corroborated the fore-

a heavy iall in the yard with the clothes line tied about him. Domicico's testimony corroborated the foregoing statement.

Catharine Fox, who likewise resides at No. 41 Mulberry street, testified that Scanion was rather light headed. She added in an indefinite sort of way that during the Sunday previous to the murder there had been a row of some sort in the house, during which the stove or something had been knocked down in Scanion's room. During the night she heard a noise overhead in one of the rooms or on the roof, and she called out, "Mike! Mike! come and relieve me; somebody will murder us." This appeal witness said she made without acy knowledge of Mike's whereabouts. The first thing she knew the police arrested her as well as the rest immediately afterward.

ITALIAN MIKE's TESTIMONY.

Angio Guargua, alias "Mike," is a low sized, low browed, cunning-looking rangicker of the most villanous type. He testified, through an interpreter, that he had nothing to do with the affair; lact, knew nothing of it until after his arrest; he had been away rappicking, or was about to go at two o'clock, when the arrest was made; he had been out once that night on this business and had not seen Scanion at all. Nothing of any moment was gleaned from this or any of the other witnesses examined aiter until Mrs. Scanion was put on the stand. She simply pleaded ignorance of the whole affair, stating that her husband had gone out about eleven o'clock on Sunday evening and sne, having laid down on the bed, leif asleep. She was awakeded by the police officer. She further stated that some weeks ago "Mike" and her husband had had some words, in which the former had several times threatened to break the latter's head. Thit was all.

The jury retired and returned the verdict given above. Then Coroner Woltman told Officer Hatton to remove Mrs. Scanion, saying, "I have no charge against her, nor has her connection with this murder in any way been proven. But Police Justice Kilbreth, after a week's investigation, bas seen fit, without wait

HO! FOR SYDNEY.

SAILING OF THE ANNIE H. SMITH YESTERDAY-

The departure of the emigrants to Australia yester-day morning from pier No. 9 East River was an interesting spectacle, and although it took place at an early hour quite a large crowd assembled on the flock to witness it. The Annie H. Smith, Captain Bartlett, found impossible to get all the passengers on board and complete the necessary preparations for about an hour and a half after the appointed time. Most of the passengers went on board on Friday afternoon, but some who had triends in the city or vicinity remained ashore till the last moment to bid a final adieu or make some necessary purchase for the long voyage. As the hour for sailing drew nigh groups of passengers and their friends came running eagerly to the pier, bringing bundles and packages of various kinds. As they ushed through the crowd on the pier they were made the butts for good natured jokes, but they generally took the chaffing in good part and hurried to get their little store on board. The leave taking on the part of those who had friends to see them off was vary affecting, and many of the women gave cent to their emotion in tears. The greater number, however, were young men who had no family connections in this country, and who regarded the voyage as though they were only making a trip to some of the Western States. The arrangements on board for placing the passengers in their proper places and getting their luggage stowed away were very complete, and any little confusion that occurred was simply the result of the eagerness of those who came rushing in at the last moment. The ship was gayly decorated, and the moraing being clear and fine the crowd of strong, healthy men and women that thronged the deck appeared to great advantage. Many of the women were very good looking, and there was not an unhealthy looking person on looard. ook the chaffing in good part and hurried to get their board.

At half-past nine o'clock the ship was swung out from the dock and towed down a considerable distance below the Battery to await the tide and pick up a few passengers who were late. Just before leaving two fashionably dressed and elderly ladies made their appearance and stated that they had reason to suspect that a young, lady had cloped with a man who was a passenger on board, but, after a hurried search through the ship, they retired without being able to find any trace of the missing fair one. A number of passengers made their appearance on the pier at various times after the departure of the vessel, and were for some time in despair of gaming the ship, but a tugboat was provided for their accommodation, and nearly all were on board by ten o'clock. It was a rather difficult operation for three or four stout, strong women to climb the lander at the ship's side, and their timidity and embarrassment were the subject of much merriment both among the passengers on board and no incident worth mentioning occurred during the trip trom the dock to the place where the ship cast alcour. Songs were sung and jokes were cracked in every variety of brouge, and no one among the 230 on board seemed to have any gloomy anticipations of their voyage or of their prospects in the new country to which they were bound.

voyage or of their prospects in the new country to which they were bound.

A REAVE WOMAN.

As the tugboat started on the return trip, the passengers crowded the deck, cheer after cheer went up, handkerchiefs were waved and a few tearial eyes were visible as the last atleus were waved to friends on the boat. Even an old sailor got into a fit of enthusiasm and lustily swung a piece of rope around his head, making the welkin ring with his hearty cheers. About half way between the vessel and the Battery a small boat was met, having a young woman on board, with trunks and other luggage, and the single boatman pulling for dear life. A rousing cheer was sent up from the little crowd on the tugboat, the woman waved her handkerchef in reply, and the little boat, tossing among the waves, finally reached the ship and the woman was hauled up in safety.

THE RICHARDSON DIVORCE CASE.

Motion was made before Judge Reynolds, in the Brookiyn City Court, yesterday, by counsel for Joseph S. Richardson, who sues his wife Frances J. Richardson for absolute divorce, to confirm the report of the referee. Thirty charges of influency were made against the defendant. The parties to the suit have been mar-ried but a few years, and formerly resided in New Jer-sey. The Court reserved its decision. FLYING FROM HOME MISERY.

Lizzie Donavan, a pretty faced and simple looking girl, who says she is eighteen years of age, but who looks much younger, was brought to the Central Office yesterday by an officer of the steamboat squad, who found her on board a Liverpool steamer vainly pleadfound her on board a Liverpool steamer vainly pleading to be taken to Eogland. She stated that five years ago she came to America with her parents, who located in New Haven, where they now reside. Her inther, whom she seemed anxious to screen from thame, had, she said, never ill-used her, but had behaved improperly toward her mother, with whom he had not spoken during the past two years. The gloom that hung over her home had discouraged her. For months she had worked in a gun tactory, carefully putting away her little savings that she might be enabled to go to England, where relatives reside. When she had saved $13 she started for New York, with the intention of taking passage on a vessel for Liverpool. Here, however, she found that her means were inadequate to meet the cost of the trip, and she was in a sad state of dejection when the officer found her. She was given into the charge of Mrs. Webb, the matron at Police Headquarters, who will take care of her until her friends are heard from.

THE STEVENS DIVORCE SUIT

Judge Neilson, of the Brooklyn City Court, yesterday granted a motion to appoint a referee to take testimony in the suit for divorce recently commenced by Thomas Jefferson Stevens for absolute divorce against his wife, Marie Stevons. The particulars of the case were published in these columns when the suit was begun. The plantiff its captain of a company in the Twenty-third regiment, National Guard, and holds the position of cierk in a bank in this city. He alleges that his wife has been improperly intimate with a tea merchant named Faulkner, who is a private in the company of which he is captain. Several years ago an intimacy sprang up between Faulkner and the Captain, and the latter invited him to his house. He discovered, however, that his friend was superseding him in the affections of his wife, and forbade his again sceing her. The husband employed private detectives to watch the pair, and came into possession of evidence which in his mind no longer admitted of any doubt as to improper relations between them. No defence has as yet been put it. The Court appointed Mr. George J. Murphy as referce. his wife, Marie Stevens. The particulars of the case
